

```
use newdb2;
```

```
create table test1 (rollno int);
```

```
insert into test1 values(10);
```

```
insert into test1 values(30);
```

```
insert into test1 values('aman');
```

```
select * from test1;
```

```
create table test2 (rollno tinyint);
```

```
insert into test2 values(256);
```

```
insert into test2 values(-256);
```

```
insert into test2 values(true);
```

```
select * from test2;
```

```
create table test2 (rollno tinyint unsigned );
```

```
insert into test2 values(256);
```

```
insert into test2 values(156);
```

```
insert into test2 values(356);
```

```
/*
```

```
tinyint -1byte
```

```
small int - 2byte
```

```
int -> 4byte
```

```
big int - 8byte , 64bit
```

```
*/
```

```
-- string datatype
```

```
-- varchar
```

```
-- char => fixed size of charctar
```

```
-- 10 => 10 character ke liye size block kr dega
```

```
drop table test4;
```

```
create table test4(gender char(4));
```

```
insert into table4 values('male');
```

```
select * from table4;
```

```
-- space , ' , " , 1, 2,'A'
```

```
create table test6(name varchar(20));
```

```
insert into test6 values(om);
```

```
select * from test6;
```

```
create table test7(name char(10), name2 varchar(10));
```

```
create table test7 values('abc' , 'abd');
```

```
create table test7 values('def' , 'def ');
```

```
-- char will remove the
```

```
select name , char_length(name) , name2 , char_length(name2)
```

```
from test7;
```